WELCOME TO THIRDPATHWAY ACUPUNCTURE

If this is your first introduction to oriental Medicine, welcome!

You are entering a very rich landscape that consists of so much more than needles. As your practitioner, it is important to me that you know how passionate I am about the therapies you will receive, and how dedicated I am to helping you chart a course to wellness. I am committed to helping you reduce or eliminate your dis-ease, pain or stress, and helping you to return to well-being in mind, body and spirit.

When I meet you in the clinic room for treatment we will meet in an environment where:

"everything counts, nothing is neutral",

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

Traditional Chinese Medicine has a heritage that spans thousands of years, is holistic in view, in both application and in outcome. There are multiple modalities potentially available to us in your treatment, and at different times some will be more appropriate than others. Like the surface of the ocean, waves will rise and fall according to the winds of inquiry that will move us in different directions as we address questions of navigation concerning your journey towards health.

Your mind, body and spirit have unique gifts to offer the world and unique lessons to learn in this journey of life. I would like to be a part of the journey that helps you to embrace the path in the most powerful way possible for you.

Close your eyes for a moment, take a couple of long, slow, deep breaths and imagine what you would feel like when you are able to say: "I have never felt better than I do right now". Now imagine if you could embrace a journey towards personal well-being that made that statement true each and every day...regardless of where you are right now. What would you like to achieve?
